Ferrari Dino 246 GT, 1972
 Considered to be the first supercar, the Dino was made available in 1972, named after Enzo's son. It was the first Ferrari to be named after a person, who died of a kidney disease, and was created in his honor. It is a 2+2 sports car, although it is often used as a 2-seater. The car was designed by Pininfarina and was produced by Ferrari's own engine works.
